Secretary Reports Steady Growth In Few Months of Existence—24 Directors Named at the Annual Meeting.

Although the Kingston Young Women's Christian Association has been in operation since last April only, the first annual meeting was held at the Association Headquarters on Henry street on Monday evening, January 14, that being the date specified by the National Y. W. C. A. Board as the annual meeting for all organizations.

There was a large attendance of members at this annual meeting. The president, Mrs. G. F. Rice, opened the meeting by reading the Lord's Prayer and an appropriate and beautiful prayer.

The secretary of the Board of Directors, Miss Nan Rodie, then read the minutes of the organization meeting held in April at the high school, the same being approved as read.

Mrs. Rice then welcomed those present and briefly spoke of the entire Y. W. C. A. achievement as follows:

It is less than one year since at a public meeting of the Federated Women's Clubs of our city it was voted to work for the organization of a "Young Women's Christian Association" in Kingston.

During this short time we have organized, put on a campaign for funds, secured a building, and are listening to the report of our work and activities. I am sure you will be gratified by the progress we have made in the few months that we have been serving the girls and women of our community.

The splendid cooperation of the members of the board and of the various committees, the hearty response of the girls themselves, and the generous aid given us by the people of Kingston have made possible the carrying out of many of our plans, and have been an inspiration for more vigorous effort to make this "Young Women's Christian Association" a vital force for good in our city.

Because of our youth we have no "yesterday," therefore, as we stand before you at this, our first annual meeting, we pause to review our "today," and fortified by the results of this introspection we face our "tomorrow" and its problems with courage, born of the conviction, that the future work of this organization deserves and will receive the interest and support of our citizens.

"For yesterday is but a dream, and tomorrow is only a vision; But today well lived makes every yesterday a stream of happiness, and every tomorrow a vision of hope."

Although this was an annual meeting, it will be noted that both the treasurer's and general secretary's reports are in no sense a record of a year's work inasmuch as the organization was effected in April and the Y. W. C. A. began actively to function the latter part of June. Furthermore it must be taken into consideration that initial expenses are high in proportion for any organization, covering as they do, the necessary equipment to get into working order.

Mrs. Joseph M. Fowler, the treasurer, then gave her report which was as follows, and was accepted and ordered placed on file:

The next report to be given was that of General Secretary, Miss Estey, who incorporated an account of the efficient work which has been accomplished by the various working committees. In her report Miss Estey said:

Time has surely flown, but not so rapidly that we can yet claim the right to boast of an annual report, or the association was formally organized on April 25, and is in reality only eight months old. But notwithstanding its extreme youth, it has evidenced by the fact that we have had to take over larger quarters in order to properly carry out our program.

Following the general organization meeting, the newly elected board of directors met on April 23, to elect its officers and Mrs. George F. Rice was chosen to be the first president. The next important procedure was, of course, arranging to finance the association and immediate plans were made for a campaign. The drive was conducted the last week of May under the expert guidance of two workers sent from the national headquarters of the Y. W. C. A. The goal set was $25,000, and all except $200 was secured, the latter amount being subscribed by the workers of the Y. W. C. A. campaign at their final luncheon when they showed their excellent spirit by putting both drives "over the top." The administration of the association finances is in the hands of a committee of which Miss Sarah Horton is the chairman.

The Y. W. C. A. became incorporated according to the state regulations, the certificate being dated June 25, 1923.

The large hall in the Mechanics' building was rented as campaign headquarters and later housed the association activities. A purchasing committee immediately went about the task of converting the bare space into a most cozy and attractive club room. The new general secretary came for three weeks in June to assist in organizing the office and starting the girls' activities. The physical director came to the association on July first and with the aid of the office secretary the summer program was carried on, the outdoor activities being the main feature. The association gave the use of the hall for the Girl Scout rally in June and in turn the Scouts rented their camp to the Y. W. C. A. for the last two weeks of August.

The association was represented by two delegates at the city conference at Silver Bay in July and by one delegate at the business girls' conference at Altamont Camp.

With the return of the fall staff in September, work started in earnest and the standing committees were organized and the plans for the fall and winter program worked out. One of the most active committees, especially during the early months, was rooms registry committee, of which Mrs. C. B. Dickinson is the chairman. Up until January first a total of 68 houses with 112 rooms had been visited and 93 strangers had been referred to these rooms. Posters have been placed in the railroad stations and small cards advertising this service have been distributed.

The girl reserve work for the younger girls has been enthusiastically received and six grade school and one high school club have been organized. In the grade school department a total of 170 different girls have attended the club meetings and of these 62 have qualified and already been formally recognized as girl reserves, this initiation being conducted by girl reserves from the Newburg association. Many others are working for this formal recognition. Miss Jennie Riskey is chairman of this department and is ably assisted by an active committee of club leaders.

The care of the association and purchase of furnishings are in the hands of a committee headed by Mrs. E. F. Mac Fadden. Owing to the need for additional space in order that more than one activity be scheduled at a given time, the whole of the first floor of the Mechanics' building was taken over on December 6, and the attractive furnishings and office equipment moved into the front rooms, thus leaving the hall as a gymnasium and recreation room. A lease of the rooms for two years was drawn up and signed.

The educational classes began the last week in November, this work being in charge of a committee with Mrs. Frank Thompson as chairman. During this short time 61 have been registered for the classes. Two pre-election talks were given at the association, there being speakers from both the Republican and Democratic parties. Three vespers services have been conducted, one at the Altamont House, one at the "Y" and one at the Home for the Aged.

The physical classes began December 1st in the new Y. W. C. A. gymnasium and at that time the Y. M. C. A. pool and bowling alleys were also rented for Tuesday evenings. Up to January 1st, 121 had already registered for work in this department. Dr. Mary Gage-Day is chairman of the health work. Miss Ideella Hyde's committee responsible for senior activities has assisted in lining up girls for the basketball teams, which are just being started, and in spreading publicity regarding all scheduled activities. Folders announcing the classes and activities were issued and distributed throughout the city.

Six of our young "Y" girls gave a pleasing dance, "Pan and the Dryades," at the ball for the benefit of the dependent children, which bit of cooperation was greatly appreciated by the committee in charge of the affair.

Many "get acquainted" parties have been held at the Y. W. C. A. and this hospitality work is in charge of Mrs. Seth S. Staples. The way in which the young people have responded has proved how very welcome a Y. W. C. A. is. More than 400 were present at the formal opening parties and an equal number attended the two Halloween festivities. Two dancing parties have been held for the association girls and their friends, and many other delightful parties. The next important procedure was, of course, arranging to finance the association and immediate plans were made for a campaign. The drive was conducted the last week of May under the expert guidance of two workers sent from the national headquarters of the Y. W. C. A. Two Drunken Drivers Fined

When They Present Excuses For Not Having Shown Up At Last Term of County Court, Final One at Which Jail Might Be Evaded.—Brookley's Sentence Suspended.—Broderick Fined $75.

County court convened Monday afternoon at the court house with County Judge Joseph Fowler presiding. There is no grand jury in attendance at the January term of county court.

Trial jurors who failed to answer when their names were called by Deputy County Clerk Walter Gerold were: William Kirby of Shawangunk, Frank Moorehead of Marletown, Sheridan Phillips of Wawarsing, who were not served as they were out of the county and H. Bowman LeFevre of New Paltz who is ill. The name of Walter S. Dets of Marlborough was taken from the box as he is an exempt fireman. The following were excused from service at this term of court: Mark Bacharach, city; Isaac Foster, Marlborough; John Liccardo, city; Oscar Markle, Rochester; Charles H. Safford, city; Frank Sands, city; Charles E. Saunders, Ulster; Augustus J. Winter, city and also Frank Sass who exercised his right to exemption on the grounds of having been honorably discharged from the National Guard.

There are but 17 cases on the civil calendar. Two of these were announced as settled. No. 1, Henry S. Crispell against William R. Harrison and Leon Blankfield, an action on contract and No. 3, The Quality Brands Company against Frank Modica, also an action on contract. No. 11, Herman Grudman against John Hoen & Thomas Kristie, an action on a promissory note was announced as practically settled.

An action brought by John Van Benschoten, Inc., against Byron S. Thornton and Sarah Thornton, an action on contract, was disposed of when judgment was entered by default. N. H. Pessender appears for plaintiff and Le Roy Lounsbury for defendant.

Number 9, Adelbert Chambers and Leon E. Chambers against Claude H. Christina and No. 12, M. F. Price, etc., against E. F. McTague, both actions on contract, will be heard by the court without a jury.

The action brought by George Hildebrand against the American Railway Express Company, an action for negligence of common carrier, will be heard by the court on the first Wednesday following the trial term of court. A. D. & A. W. Lent appear for plaintiff and D. W. Ostrander appears for defendant.

There is little civil work to be done at this term but there is a long criminal calendar. District Attorney Traver announced that he would be ready with several cases and in view of this fact thirty extra jurors were ordered drawn for next Monday. The trial jurors were excused until Tuesday, January 22, at 10 o'clock.

The first case on the criminal calendar which was announced as ready is the People vs. Floyd Robb, a negro indicted for grand larceny in the first degree in stealing an automobile valued at $600 in the city of Kingston on November 12, the property of Pareis Williams. Robb was arraigned in supreme court and entered a plea of not guilty. Andrew J. Cook appears for defendant.

Arthur Seeger, of New York city, who was arrested on July 4, 1923, in this city, charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, was arraigned and entered a plea of guilty. Frank W. Brooks appeared for defendant and explained to the court that the indictment was found by the September grand jury and that he had been retained by a brother-in-law of defendant and that he had been furnished with the brother-in-law's address and not the defendant's. At the last term of county court he had endeavored to get his client here but his letters were unanswered. He finally heard from his communication but too late to arraign the defendant at the last term of county court. At that time Judge Fowler stated that "he would impose jail sentences on all defendants who came before him after that term on a charge of driving cars while intoxicated. At the last term a chance was given those who were guilty of the offense. Mr. Brooks explained that the brother-in-law was occupied in a position which caused him to travel all over the country and for that reason his letter had not been received until after the adjournment of the court. With this situation in view, he asked the court to consider the case and treat it as though it had been heard at the last term of court. It was through no failure of the defendant that he was not given an opportunity to plead at the last term. Judge Fowler stated that in this case and also one other which had been brought to his attention he would consider the matter and consequently find defendant $100 and sentenced him to three months in the county jail, the jail sentence being suspended during good behavior. The fine was paid.

James McCarthy of Peekskill, who was in a similar situation, received the same consideration. He had retained John Mack of Poughkeepsie and on account of Mr. Mack's illness the defendant had not been notified to appear at the last term of county court until it was too late to enter a plea of guilty. McCarthy was arrested in the town of Lloyd on September 2, 1923. Through his attorney, William D. Brimmer, Jr., he entered a plea of guilty. Mr. Brimmer explained that when he was notified of the case on December 3 he notified his client and on December 4 he came to Kingston but court had adjourned. McCarthy was under $250 cash bail and the court imposed the $100 fine and the jail sentence as in the former case and suspended the jail sentence. An order was entered directing defendant to be paid the $150 balance of the cash bail which he had deposited.

Francis Brookley changed his former plea of not guilty to guilty to assault in the second degree. This plea was accepted to indictment number 1,154 by District Attorney Traver who also joined in Attorney Flanagan's plea for leniency. Brookley is but 17 years old and since the trouble which resulted in the indictment he had gone to work and had worked steadily ever since. Mr. Traver stated to the court that he thought the boy should have a chance to continue this good record and as he had abandoned his old associates who were partly responsible for the trouble, the court did give defendant a chance. The imposition of sentence was suspended during good behavior and Brookley was directed by Judge Fowler to report to Probation Officer Service for a period of six months. Brookley has a job on a boat and the captain has found him reliable and will continue to employ him while the boy is laid up for the winter season.

John Broderick, indicted for having a revolver in his possession without a license, a violation of section 897 of the penal law, alleged to have been committed in the city on October 12, 1923, entered a plea of guilty. In this case Mr. Traver stated that the defendant bore a good reputation and had not been involved in any serious trouble and asked the court to show leniency in the matter. A fine of $75 was imposed and paid by defendant.

When the criminal calendar is taken up next week several cases will be ready for trial. District Attorney Traver is prepared to move several for trial and undoubtedly several cases will be disposed of at this term of court.

King's Speech to Parliament.
Unemployment and Afghan Murders Still Cause Concern—Run Treaty With U. S. Nearly Concluded—Lausanne Treaty to be Made Effective.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, Jan. 15.—"My ministers, in common with British dominion representatives, have been anxious to remove the difficulty with regard to illicit importation of liquor to the United States, and have made a proposal for an agreement, which is on the eve of conclusion and which should further strengthen the happy relations prevailing between the two countries and the two peoples," said King George in a speech from the throne today, opening the business session of the new parliament.

The king's speech laid down a definite program for trade development to offset the tariff reforms rejected by the voters in the last election. He also made extensive suggestions for relief of unemployment. These, however, were mainly non-continuous to save the Tory government from attacks by the Laborites.

The king began his speech by saying: "My relations with foreign powers continue friendly. I am glad to be able to record definite progress in the solution of questions which, hitherto had blocked the pathway to a mutual understanding and have retarded the recovery of the world."

King George pointed out that the Allied reparations commission is now examining "very serious financial conditions affecting Germany." He called attention to the fact that the Moroccan dispute between certain powers over commercial rights has been settled by the Tangier treaty.

"A measure soon will be introduced in parliament to give effect to the Lausanne (Near East) treaty," continued the king. "As soon as it is passed the treaty will be ratified and a new era of peaceful relations will open between Great Britain and Turkey."

King George declared that the murders along the Afghan-Indian frontier cause him great concern. The British government, he added, has made vigorous representations and earnestly hopes that the offenders will be punished and more satisfactory relations established between the British Empire and Afghanistan.

Four, Hurt, Have X-Ray Pictures

John Hein, Jr., of 361 Washington avenue, janitor of the Ulster County Savings Institution building on Wall street, who fell over a grip which a woman had placed on the tile floor of the banking room, Monday noon, was taken to the office of Dr. H. P. Van Wageningen on John street. He was in such pain that an anesthetic was administered and an X-ray taken by Dr. Van Wageningen which disclosed that Mr. Hein not only dislocated his right shoulder, but that the shoulder was broken and also the arm.

J. A. Black of Westkill, Greene county, on Saturday night slipped on some ice and fell injuring himself. He was brought on Monday to the office of Dr. Harry P. Van Wageningen who took an X-ray of Mr. Black's right leg and it was found the leg was broken in two places at the ankle. The doctor gave the man the necessary surgical attention setting the broken bones.

Susan Stewart of 405 Hasbrouck avenue, a few days ago fell down a part of a staircase. She was brought to the office of Dr. Van Wageningen by Dr. Van Nostrand her attending physician, where an X-ray of the arm of Mrs. Stewart was made which showed that the arm was fractured near the shoulder.

Jay T. Every of 17 Lafayette avenue while at the automobile show in New York city, one day last week, while standing on a platform viewing cars on exhibition stepped back to allow others to pass by, and in so doing stepped off the platform backward and fell on his back on the floor. He was brought to his home by friends and has been in the care of Dr. Frank A. Johnston. This morning Dr. H. P. Van Wageningen took an X-ray picture of Mr. Every's back at his bedside, to ascertain the extent of the injury sustained.

"It will continue to be my object to support by every means in my power the steady growth of influence in the League of Nations," the king continued.

King George outlined the success of the British Imperial Conference, saying proposals to give effect to the policy of Imperial preference will be submitted to the House of Commons. The government will publish estimates for the public services.

The governor then touched upon unemployment saying: "While I am glad to note the schemes providing employment, now in operation, had appreciable effect during the last year in reducing the numbers of unemployed, the number still unable to find work causes my greatest concern. My ministers recently laid before the country proposals which in their judgment would have contributed to solution of this problem by affording industry a greater measure of security in the home market and would have improved the outlook for its production in my dominion, but these proposals were not accepted by the country."

Steps will be taken to develop the present system of juvenile unemployment centers and provide increased facilities for general technical education.

"The condition of agriculture is a source of anxiety. My ministers intend to call the leaders of all political parties to reach an agreed policy to maintain arable lands and to secure steady employment for land workers."

"Bill will be introduced to improve the position of pre-war pensioners and to amend the Old Age Pension Act."

King George said that bills were under consideration to reform the probation system in factory laws and to legitimize children born to unmarried women. An extension of housing facilities will be proposed.

The king suggested land purchases in Ulster to guarantee the principal and interest of bonds issued by the Irish Free State government at Dublin under the Land Act. Great Britain, he added, will continue to alleviate the hardships caused by former disturbances in Ireland.

Proposals will be submitted for home defense.

Reforms in Scotland's laws were urged.

King George and Queen Mary rode in medieval state from Buckingham Palace to Parliament building for opening of the new session. It was expected that the legislative activities today would mark the beginning of the end of Premier Stanley Baldwin's Tory government.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

Soap should be used very carefully. If you want to keep your hair looking its best. Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it. The best thing for steady use is Mulford's coconut oil shampoo, which is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulford's coconut oil shampoo at any drug store; it is inexpensive, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

San Jose Scale Shows Up Again

The San Jose scale is again making inroads into New York orchards, according to the entomologists of the Experiment Station at Geneva. The great activity of nurserymen and orchardists in combating the scale several years ago practically eliminated it as a pest as a serious menace to fruit growing in this State. Lately, however, the entomologists say, vigilance has been relaxed to the extent that the scale is again becoming a serious problem in many orchards.

Fruit growers are urged by the station officials to be on the look-out for badly infested trees as they prune their orchard this winter. The twigs and small branches of severely infested trees have a grayish, scabby look which may extend even to the main branches. By marking such trees special attention can be given to them when the spraying is done later on.

Spraying with lime-sulfur at a strength of one part lime-sulfur to eight parts of water in the early spring just as the buds begin to swell will hold the scale in check, it is said. Trees which have been marked as having a heavy infestation should receive extra careful spraying.

Candidates will be recommended for the Board of Directors of the National Chamber. The Eastern Division may recommend five candidates to fill vacancies occurring in the first, second and third election districts included in the division, and in two of the eight representative departments of the Chamber. 'Quake Tumbles Jap Buildings

Four Persons Killed, 200 Hurt. Trains Derailed and Handcarts of Flowers Burned in Most Violent Shock Since Sept. 1923.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, Jan. 15.—Fire is raging at Sukamo, a suburb of Tokio, following new earthquake shocks, said a dispatch from Osaka today. A train fell into a river. Six other trains were derailed between Gotemba and Tokio.

Further advices from Osaka and Tokio, received during the afternoon put the dead in the Tokio district at four and the injured at 20. The Yokohama casualties were estimated at 10 killed and 200 injured.

Fire broke out at Yokohama, destroying 600 houses.

Strong earth tremors were felt in the Sagami district, centering around Mutsunoto.

The extent of the damage in Tokio proper is not known. Communication has been interrupted between Tokio, Osaka, Kyoto and Kobe.

Kobe was slightly affected, but the damage is not known. The subway began shortly after 5 o'clock this morning. Rooms of the Osaka district, around the city, were also shaken.

It is understood that a slight tremor was felt at Yokohama. Tokio, Jan. 15.—Tokio rock d today to a tremendous earth tremor, the greatest since the disastrous earthquake of September. The shock occurred at 5:45 a. m., before the inhabitants had started the fires for breakfast. Reports of the damage were slow coming in. No casualties had been reported when this dispatch was filed.

Telephone and telegraph lines were dis- tinguished by the shock and service was interrupted for a short time.

Communications were disrupted in all directions by the force of the shock. Three train enroute from Yokohama to Tokio were derailed and the water supply cut off. No rail service between Tokio and Osaka was also disrupted, but the extent of the damage to this important connection over which relief and reconstruction supplies are still being carried has not been reported.

The Prince Regent sent an airplane messenger from Numassu this afternoon to report the safety of the Emperor.

No deaths have been reported in Tokio, but several foreigners jumping from apartment hotel windows are reported to have sustained broken arms, scratches, and bruises.

The Tokaido railroad line, an important rail artery of Japan, was reported derailed, the track having dropped three inches.

A number of Japanese are reported to have been killed near Yokohama, where houses crashed over their heads. It is believed the center of the earthquake was farther south in that vicinity.

The writer was thrown from bed by the first shock and was forced to make his exit from the building by leaping from a low second story window. The house was waving backward and forward in drunken fashion and continued standing because of its ancient Japanese construction. In the garden giant palm trees were swaying as though in a storm and nearby a falling Buddha idol indicated the strength of the shock.

No wind was blowing and this assisted firemen in checking the few fires that started in isolated sections. They were aided by the fact that many are as yet not built up since their destruction last September. The water supply was cut off with the first shock.

"Don't mind this, it is not so bad," such was the comment of Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the late President Roosevelt, here with her son, Kermit, for a vacation.

She was speaking to her Japanese attendant at the Imperial Hotel. She refused to leave her bed and remained calm throughout the excitement.

The court yards there quickly filled with pajama clad folk but there was no casualties in the American community, the greater portion of which has been housed in this hotel since the quake.

However, the shock was severe enough to open great cracks in the walls of the building which he ravages of the greater

Mothers! Rub Away Children's Colds

Let them breathe in healing vapors all night

Little Stomachs Rebel Against Dosing

Anxious mothers are too apt to dose their children continually.

Often this upsets the delicate little stomach. An upset stomach means a poor appetite. So the child doesn't eat enough to keep up its strength.

This in turn lowers the bodily resistance, thus inviting fresh colds and other diseases.

THE MOTHER'S PROBLEM—
Wise mothers know that daily outdoor exercise in childhood lays the foundation for strong bodies in later life.

Daily means Winter as well as Summer

But with outdoor exposure some colds are bound to come

And we know now that colds are not just "simple" colds

They must not be neglected. Much of the catarrh, deafness and ill health of adults is now laid by physicians to the neglected colds of childhood

On the other hand, constant internal dosing must not be thought of. This is the mother's problem then, cold Winter days.

Rutgers Head Well Known Here

Dr. Demarest, Who Resigned as College President, Will Devote Time to Historical Research—Has Written History.

Dr. William H. S. Demarest, whose resignation as president of Rutgers College at New Brunswick, N. J., was announced in The Freeman on Saturday, is well known throughout Ulster county.

Dr. Demarest has been president of Rutgers College for nineteen years, during which time the college has been built up from a small institution to a large and important one. He has been unceasing in his work to build up the college and the results have attracted wide attention.

At the time he was called to the presidency of Rutgers, Dr. Demarest was pastor of the First Reformed Church of Catskill. He is a graduate of Rutgers, and was graduated from the New Brunswick Theological Seminary in 1888. Rutgers conferred the degree of D. D. on him in 1901, and he has received the degree of LL. D. from Columbia University, and University of Pittsburgh and Union College of Schenectady.

More than a year ago Dr. Demarest became ill from overwork and went to Haines Falls, in the Catskills, to recuperate, but was stricken with pneumonia after his return to New Brunswick. He expects to devote his time to historical research work after his resignation takes effect on June 30. He has written a "History of Rutgers College," which is now on the press, and for sometime has been engaged in collecting material for a documentary history of the college.

"Y" Boys Give $43 for Others

Thirty-seven boys and their team captains met in the rooms of the Boys' Division of the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening, to make their initial report of the H. T. O. F. campaign. After a fine supper, served by the ladies of the Auxiliary under the leader, who was Mrs. William Longyear, the team captains reported the following subscriptions from their own workers:

Team 1, Capt. Ronk	$ 5.25
Team 2, Capt. Stumpf	6.50
Team 3, Capt. Slater	4.00
Team 4, Capt. Williams	5.00
Team 5, Capt. Smith	6.00
Team 6, Capt. Hyatt	5.50
Team 7, Capt. Longyear	6.00
The Lighthouse	4.45

Total $42.70

This amount is almost double the amount that the boys contributed last year, and these pledges are only from 47 different boys.

Following these reports Mr. Hall, the boys' secretary, outlined the plans for the rest of the campaign. Districts have already been assigned to the team captains, who in turn have assigned their workers to definite streets. The boys begin this afternoon, directly after school, to leave envelopes at the homes of the citizens of Kingston. This envelope explains itself, and what the money is for, and how it is to be used. The boys will call for these envelopes the day after they left them as far as possible.

The boys are after small gifts from many people.

Last year, in gifts ranging between a penny and five one dollar bills, the boys secured $167. This year they are hoping to secure $250.

The money will be used to promote boys' work in Y. M. C. A. branches in this state.

VOTE 11 TO 1 IN FAVOR OF BOK PEACE PLAN.

Ballots, However, Number But 43,657 So Far.

The American Peace Award reported Sunday that the ballots so far counted were approximately eleven to one in favor of the peace plan that won the Bok prize.

The Bok organization said a week ago that publications with a combined circulation of 27,000,000 would print the ballots and that millions of loose ballots would be supplied in addition in order to make possible a complete canvass of the whole public of the United States. The ballots counted last week, however, numbered only 43,657, according to Sunday's statement.

The exact count was 38,529 for the plan and 5,128 against, thus virtually assuring that the author, who has received $50,000 already, will receive also the $50,000 which under the rules is to be paid if the plan is ratified by the public. The balloting will last until the middle of February.

New York, with the population of 6,000,000, has done little voting so far in spite of the great publicity which the prize winning plan received there. The votes have not been segregated geographically, but were reported to come from all parts of the country, including a few from the far west.

The gross pool price for December is announced as $2.23. A deduction of 8 cents for expenses makes the net pool price $2.15. Five cents of this is reserved for certificates of indebtedness. These figures are for 100 pounds of 3 percent milk at the 200-210 mile zone.

According to the officials of the association, this price is lower than the November price and lower than the December price a year ago because of the demoralized condition of the fluid milk market brought about in November by the price cutting policy of the Sheffield Farms Company and other dealers who buy from unorganized farmers outside the association. These officials further claim that the December pool price would have been considerably less than this had the association not reduced its Class 1 or fluid price and thus held its fluid markets against the inroads of unorganized milk. In this way the League dairymen have not only held their fluid market but have increased their fluid sales to some extent.

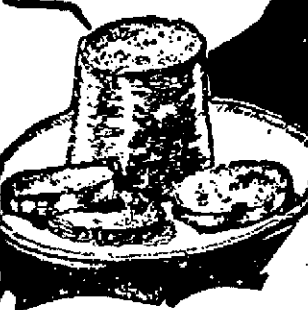

The League farmer has not felt the effect of this demoralization in the fluid market so directly as the non-league farmer because the markets for the League's manufactured products have remained undisturbed. The classification plan of selling milk which the League follows; that is, the plan of selling milk at prices which vary according to the uses to which the milk is put has enabled the pooling association to meet the unusual situation promptly and effectively. League officers put the blame for the present unsatisfactory conditions in the fluid milk market squarely up to the group of non-cooperating dealers and producers, led by the Sheffield Farms Company. They maintain that there has been no reason at any time within the last two or three months, either from the standpoint of cost of production or from the standpoint of the consumer for a reduction in the price of fluid milk, and that all producers would be receiving much better prices had there been better cooperation.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

DOG HEROES

"I've heard some splendid things about dog heroes lately," said Daddy, "and of course I want to tell them to both of you."

"Dogs are the best animals in the world," said Nick. "Oh, yes," said Nancy, "they are without a doubt."

"Well," Daddy continued, "a horse was suddenly very much frightened. The horse was used to automobiles and trolley cars but the horse had not been hearing anything very noisy and suddenly a trolley car came around the corner making a great deal of noise."

"I suppose it is just as it is with people. You know how sometimes a noise will come unexpectedly and we will jump?"

"I think it was much that way with the horse."

"Anyway the horse did jump and then he began to run. Oh, he was frightened and he just had to run—anyway, anywhere, just so he could run off some of his fear, or run away from it!"

"Sitting in the back of the wagon was a dog. His master was inside one of the shops in the neighborhood."

"As the horse started to run away the dog, with a bound, jumped upon the front seat and grabbed the reins in his mouth. Then he pulled and he jumped back of the seat so he could pull still harder and he able to hold the reins together."

"And the dog brought the horse to a standstill, and about, on the street, some people saw it and wrote to the papers and told them of this splendid dog hero who had thought so quickly of the right thing to do at the right time."

"For one never knows just where a runaway horse will run and what will happen."

"But the dog had kept anything from happening and had avoided all danger by being so quick and so brave and so bright."

"Oh, what a wonderful dog," said Nick. "I guess his master was proud of him all right."

"I'm sure of it," said Daddy.

"Well, he would be a queer master."

Pulling at the Bedding.

not to be proud of such a dog," said Nancy, and both Daddy and Nick said: "That's right!"

"Then," said Daddy, "I want to tell you this evening, too, of the two collie dogs who caught and held the burglar who was trying to rob their master."

"It was in a big city building and the burglar knew that lots of money was kept there but the burglar did not know that two collie dogs lived in the basement of this building."

"The master had a great deal of room for them there and he had it fixed up very nicely for them and he would take them often into the country for long walks and runs."

"The burglar was leaving with the valuables he had stolen when the master, coming in, saw the burglar."

"He tried to get the valuables away but the burglar was strong and was getting the best of the master when the two collies, hearing the master's voice and knowing it sounded the way it did when the master was distressed, hurried up the stairs."

"Quickly they saw what was happening! Quickly they went after the burglar."

"Now the burglar didn't like these two big collie dogs. No, he didn't like them at all."

"He tried to escape but they held him fast."

"He had dropped the valuables but the collies still held him as the master had not told them to let go."

"The master sent for a policeman and before long a policeman came."

"And the big burglar gave up stealing for his living after this, for, somehow, not only had he been a failure, but he had been made to feel such a worthless wretch of a creature by the two splendid collies who got the better of him."

"And the third dog story I have been saving to tell you was of the little fox terrier who smelt smoke late at night and who awoke every member of a very sleepy family by pulling at the bedding upon each bed until they got up."

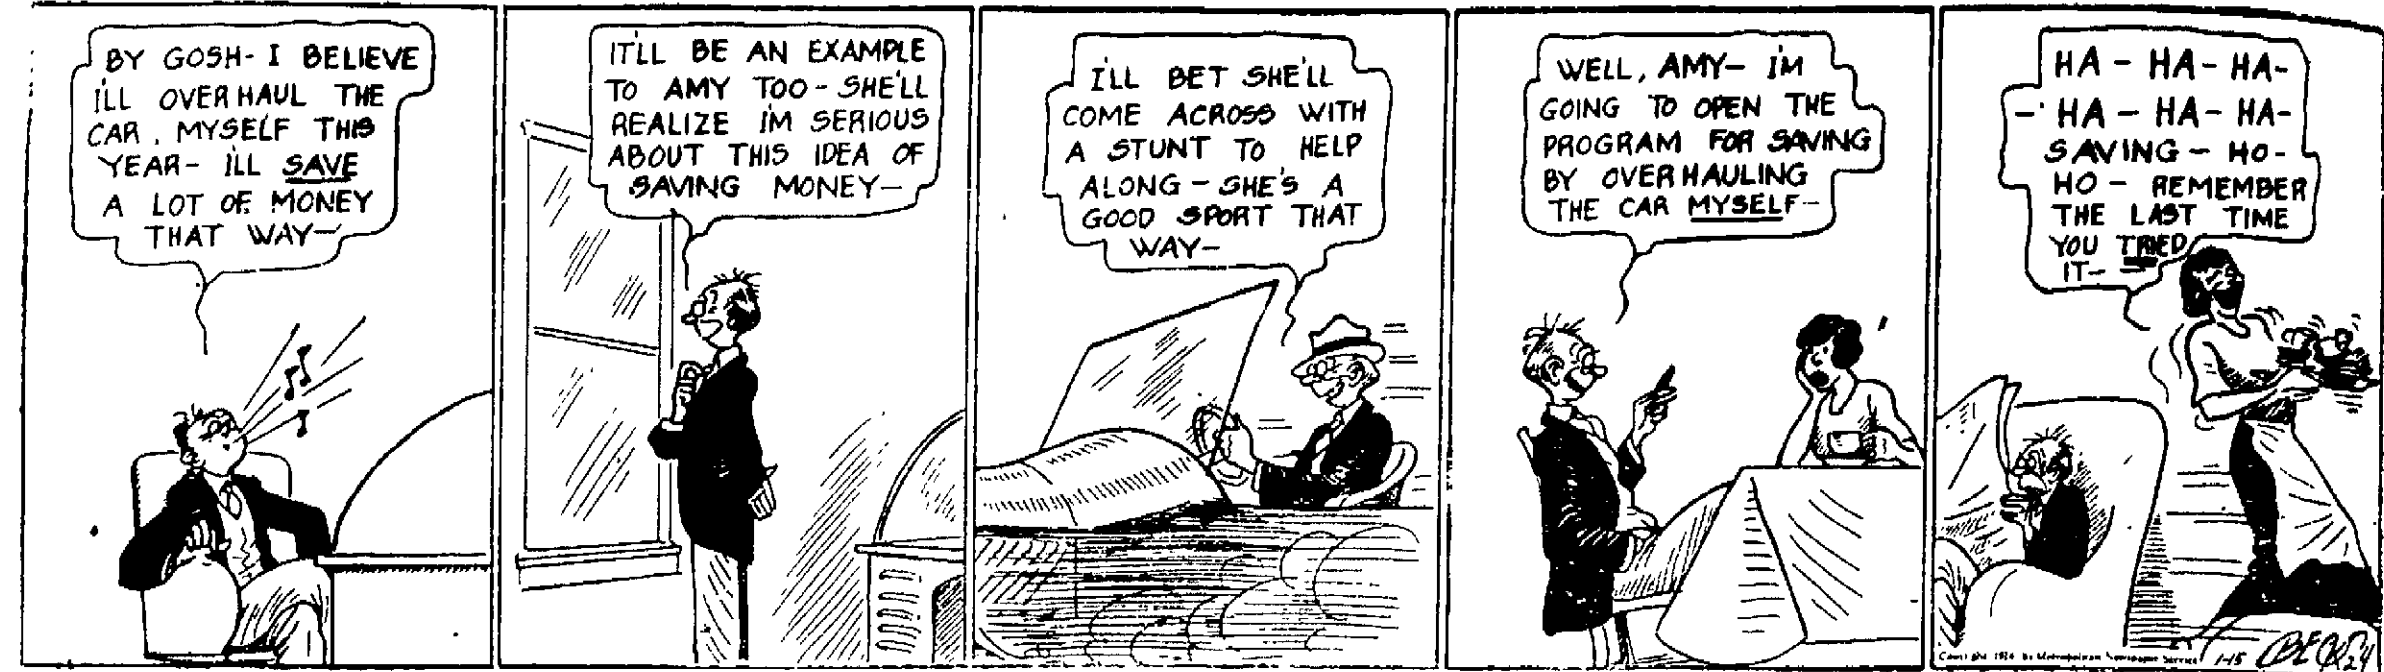

"The fire was put out in time but if it had been allowed to get any more headway it would have caught them all."

"And the little dog had saved so many lives! Was it any wonder that he became more of a pet in the family than ever?"

"I should say not," cried Nick, and Nancy added:

"I have always adored fox terriers!"

YEAST BREADS

A third of a yeast cake or less may be used when setting a small sponge at night. A cupful of liquid is supposed to make an ordinary-sized loaf. To a pint of milk add a pint of boiling water, cool and add the compressed yeast.

which has been softened in warm water. Add one-half teaspoonful of salt and two tablespoonfuls of flour to make a drop batter. Prepare this sponge at six o'clock and about ten o'clock add a smooth ball; but for the bread bowl, set in a place not too warm, cover and let stand until morning. The first thing in the morning, if it is very light, cut down with a sharp knife. Set in a warm place and let rise. When again light cut down and upon the next rising the loaf will be very tender. A few tablespoonfuls of fat may be added to the sponge if desired, making a more tender loaf. Now knead, make into any desired breads. For rolls a very nice one is the clover leaf. Break off bits of the dough, add a little butter or sweet fat, roll into small balls and place three in each greased pan. Set to rise until very light and bake in a quick oven.

If time is short, make the old-fashioned biscuits, pinching off enough dough for each; roll into a ball and place closely together in a greased dripping pan. Pierce with a fork and set in a very warm place to rise; when more than double in bulk, place in a very hot oven, then lower the heat to finish the baking.

Dinner rolls of finer texture may be made by adding a cupful of mashed potato and an egg or two to the sponge with a half-cupful or less of shortening. This mixture may also be used for Current or Cinnamon Buns.—Roll a portion of light dough, pin down the corners to hold, cover with butter, strew with currants and cinnamon or with cinnamon and brown sugar. Roll up into a roll and cut with a sharp knife. Put to rise into a well-greased pan and be carefully when light, not to burn.

THERE'S A RUMBLE IN THE AIR!

Luckey, Platt & Company's Big Rummage Sale

Will Arrive on Saturday, January 19th

This has been a sensational sale at our store for the past two years. Never at any other time of the year do such drastic price cutting occur.

It is all we say it is—A RUMMAGE SALE—every buyer will go through the stock and place such prices on things they do not need that they are bound to be sold on RUMMAGE SALE DAY.

Some will be discontinued patterns, others out of season merchandise, some soiled goods, others only a few really up-to-date merchandise of which we have only two or three of its kind.

Last year we placed in this sale hundreds of things at half and less and some at ridiculously low price markings.

WHAT WILL WE FIND IN THIS 1924 RUMMAGE SALE?

We're getting things together this week. Saturday the Rummage Sale will blossom out—it will last one day—perhaps not a day—come early, you may find just the thing you want at practically no price at all.

Cantilever Shoe for Men & Women

Reason for Comfort

It is designed to follow every line and curve of the human foot. When you lace up a Cantilever, the flexible arch draws up and fits the undercurve of the foot—gently supporting the arch structure while allowing it to function freely. This also holds the foot firmly in the heel seat and prevents its slipping forward. The flexible arch permits healthful exercise of the entire foot, thereby strengthening the foot muscles and promoting freer circulation.

The expert workmanship on Cantilevers and the skillful process of putting on the flexible soles is the result of years of study and experience. The Cantilever factories are devoted exclusively to this one type of shoe—the flexible shank shoe. Making—and fitting—comfort shoes, is a profession.

Gov. Smith's Auto Message

Calls For License for Every Driver. Central Bureau of Records and License Revocation Authority With State—N. Y. Behind Neighboring States.

Governor Smith Monday night sent the following message to the state legislature:

In my first message, I touched upon the subject of Automobile Regulation and promised that at a later date I would communicate at length with your honorable bodies.

The growth in the number and the usage of automobiles presents a difficult problem and one which the state is called upon to meet at the earliest possible moment. The number of motor vehicles increased from 134,405 in 1913 to 1,223,077 in 1923, an increase in ten years of more than 810%. This means that more than 810% of the cars which were ten years old are now being used. Based upon the figures of the last, the Tax Commission estimates that the Tax Commission will be licensed in 1924, and at least 1,765,000 in 1925.

As I have said before, while the number of cars has increased, there is no corresponding increase in the number of streets and highways, and the increase in the number of cars is to a given mileage of streets and highways year after year, the suggestion must become more pronounced and the chance of accident increased. That the problem be solved rightly is of vital interest to every man, woman and child in the state who either drives a car, rides in one or makes use of the streets and highways. Not all drivers are equally competent, and the percentage of competent drivers is not constant, and the percentage of incompetent drivers is not constant.

The plan seems to be that the Tax Department shall limit its activities to those of a licensing agency which handles the mechanical work of issuing and recording licenses, and of collecting and accounting for the fees. The power to revoke licenses is placed elsewhere, even the authority to ask the State Police to aid in enforcement work is conferred upon the State Commissioner of Highways rather than the Tax Department. Such a plan cannot and will not result in successful, efficient administration.

I have thus far stated the situation as it is and I have indicated our manner and method of dealing with it. I have but a few major suggestions to make with regard to what, in my opinion, should be our future treatment of this subject, and I leave the detail of carrying it out to your honorable bodies. I believe, first, that there should be enacted a state-wide operator or driver license law. The right to drive an automobile in public thoroughfares is not inherent, it is a privilege which the state may grant or withhold. Not every person, regardless of age or sex, who has money or credit sufficient to buy a car, is qualified to drive. The lives of other drivers, their passengers and the lives of pedestrians are placed in jeopardy unless qualification tests are applied before permission to drive is granted.

Secondly, the state should have a central bureau of records and license revocation authority with the state—N. Y. Behind Neighboring States.

Thirdly, the state should have a central bureau of records and license revocation authority with the state—N. Y. Behind Neighboring States.

of New York nor that of Massachusetts is able to give final and complete figures with respect to 1923 motor vehicle accidents. Nevertheless, their records are sufficiently complete to indicate 1893 fatalities in New York and 556 in Massachusetts. These facts in connection with those heretofore stated, lead to the conclusion:

(f) That 471 unnecessary and preventable deaths occurred in New York in 1923 due to its failure to deal successfully with the motor vehicle problem as did its sister state of Massachusetts.

(g) That during the four years, 1920 to 1923, 1,470 New Yorkers were killed in preventable motor accidents.

With the aid of these facts and these experiences, it is possible to picture what will happen in the future unless New York corrects its policy. Assuming that during the ten years commencing with 1924 and ending with 1933 fatalities in these two states increase as they have during the four years ended with 1923, then 11,183 more people will be killed in New York than would be so killed if the rate of increase in New York did not exceed that of Massachusetts. The preventable deaths will range from 588 in 1924 to 1,855 in 1933.

Nothing has been said of other than fatal accidents, but it follows, as a matter of course, that accidents resulting in personal injuries and loss of or injury to property shows a proportionately bad record for New York. At least 55,000 such accidents occurred in 1923, resulting in the loss of millions.

Our present treatment of the regulation of motor vehicles is as follows: The Tax Department issues licenses for cars and to chauffeurs (both state-wide) and to operators or drivers in Greater New York, but it has little power to withhold a car license and no power to revoke any license. The authority to revoke licenses is vested only in the courts. The penal and regulatory features are left in the hands of state and local police authorities and with the State Commissioner of Highways.

The plan seems to be that the Tax Department shall limit its activities to those of a licensing agency which handles the mechanical work of issuing and recording licenses, and of collecting and accounting for the fees. The power to revoke licenses is placed elsewhere, even the authority to ask the State Police to aid in enforcement work is conferred upon the State Commissioner of Highways rather than the Tax Department. Such a plan cannot and will not result in successful, efficient administration.

I have thus far stated the situation as it is and I have indicated our manner and method of dealing with it. I have but a few major suggestions to make with regard to what, in my opinion, should be our future treatment of this subject, and I leave the detail of carrying it out to your honorable bodies. I believe, first, that there should be enacted a state-wide operator or driver license law. The right to drive an automobile in public thoroughfares is not inherent, it is a privilege which the state may grant or withhold. Not every person, regardless of age or sex, who has money or credit sufficient to buy a car, is qualified to drive. The lives of other drivers, their passengers and the lives of pedestrians are placed in jeopardy unless qualification tests are applied before permission to drive is granted.

Secondly, the state should have a central bureau of records and license revocation authority with the state—N. Y. Behind Neighboring States.

Thirdly, the state should have a central bureau of records and license revocation authority with the state—N. Y. Behind Neighboring States.

Fourthly, the state should have a central bureau of records and license revocation authority with the state—N. Y. Behind Neighboring States.

Fifthly, the state should have a central bureau of records and license revocation authority with the state—N. Y. Behind Neighboring States.

Sixthly, the state should have a central bureau of records and license revocation authority with the state—N. Y. Behind Neighboring States.

Seventhly, the state should have a central bureau of records and license revocation authority with the state—N. Y. Behind Neighboring States.

Eighthly, the state should have a central bureau of records and license revocation authority with the state—N. Y. Behind Neighboring States.

Ninthly, the state should have a central bureau of records and license revocation authority with the state—N. Y. Behind Neighboring States.

Tenthly, the state should have a central bureau of records and license revocation authority with the state—N. Y. Behind Neighboring States.

Eleventhly, the state should have a central bureau of records and license revocation authority with the state—N. Y. Behind Neighboring States.

Twelfthly, the state should have a central bureau of records and license revocation authority with the state—N. Y. Behind Neighboring States.

requiring operators to be licensed in New York city but allows anyone to drive a car in other parts of the state, and the fatality percentages increase in the two sections of the state which have prevailed for the last four years—a perfectly reasonable assumption—then 5,371 people will needlessly be killed upstate in 1924 to 1933, inclusive. We cannot say who they will be, but that that number of preventable fatal accidents will occur is a foregone conclusion, unless the state change its policy. The cost for each day's delay is one human life.

Increased efficiency in the police department of the city of New York is not taken into account. No doubt many of these 553 individuals owe their lives to the fact that the New York city police department has been progressive in all traffic matters, but it is assumed that the police authorities of other localities could have made the same strides had the need there been brought forcibly to their attention and had there been a state-wide operator license law.

My second suggestion would be the creation of a Central Bureau of Records in Albany, preferably in the Department of State Police, giving accurate information of all accidents with a provision in law requiring local authorities, whether administrative or judicial, to report all such accidents to the Central Bureau of Information, and insurance companies should be required to report all property damage so that the state may have on file in Albany an accurate history of every man and woman in the state who is licensed to drive an automobile. In Massachusetts, any person in an accident, whether injured or not, is required to report it to the state under penalty of forfeiture of license. It may be well to consider this.

My third suggestion relates to the matter of revocation of licenses. Nobody will contend that our courts should not have the power to revoke the license of a chauffeur or operator. By all means they should have such power, but effective regulation of motor traffic will never obtain in this state until and unless the authority which issues licenses has full and complete authority to withhold, suspend or revoke licenses, subject, of course, to the right of review of its decisions before the courts.

I need hardly tell you that the preservation of life and property is one of the most important functions of government. With that in mind, I am satisfied that your honorable bodies will give this whole subject your best thought, to the end that our state may be in progressive step with our neighboring states, as far as this very important problem is concerned.

ORATORICAL CONTEST FOR STATE SCHOOLBOYS

Schoolboys throughout Ulster county are eligible to a statewide oratorical competition to be conducted by Columbia University, it is announced by the secretary of the university, Frank D. Paekenthal. The contest, which will be open to boys of public and private secondary schools in New York state outside of Greater New York, will be held in Earl Hall, Columbia, Friday, March 14.

"The prizes, which are provided by the Association of the Alumni of Columbia College, will be $100, $50, and $25 respectively," says the announcement. "The winner of the first prize may, in lieu of the cash prize of $100, have a scholarship for his first year in Columbia College. The renewal of the scholarship for subsequent years will depend entirely upon the quality of his work as a college student."

A RAPID DECISION

By MRS. ADELAIDE R. KEMP

CELLA stepped from the limousine and, followed by her tall escort, entered the main doorway of the broadcasting quarters. Only a few months before she had been as unknown to anyone outside her home town as a "violet by any other name." Now, when she tucked her beloved violin under her chin,

"You needn't wait for me, Robert, if it is going to make you late for the show," she said in a low tone as they went down the corridor.

"I don't mind being late," he answered quickly, "only I hate to see you dragging up here two or three nights a week when there is no need of it."

Celia made no answer as she opened the office door. She went over to the desk and received a large batch of mail. Since her radio debut she had week, ever since the first letter had come, six months before, in which Sydney Armstrong had made himself known from a lumber camp in Michigan as one of her most appreciative listeners. Today his letter had come, and a large package with it—his picture, she knew. At his request she had sent hers the week before. There was no time to read it now, so she placed everything in her father's hands.

It was several hours later that they were in a restaurant down town. Celia's face, however, spirituelle face looked very beautiful with the glow of the pink-lit candles upon it. Robert watched her with admiring eyes.

"Celia," he said suddenly, "why don't you make up your mind? Mother is going to Italy in a couple of

"Oh, Robert," said Celia, distress on her face, "what made you do it? I

"Look here," said Robert, quickly, "he's dropped the leather case back in his pocket, 'I don't believe it's your work. You've something else on your mind and it makes you feel un- comfortable.' Well, leave it until Friday night. I'll meet you outside the play. If it's 'yes' we'll go to Italy. If it's the other thing I'll go with mother my way."

In the quietness of her room Celia lay curled up in the sleepy-hollow of a chair.

and took the package of mail from her folio. She took out the Michigan letter and the large flat parcel and fastened the wrappings of the letter. Yes, he looked just as she had opened the letter. Instead of the usu-

The Japanese parliament is modeled after that of Great Britain, but its spirit is entirely different. In Japan, debates in parliament are pleasant.

occasions where men of second rank are permitted to display themselves. The leader of a party may even have a seat in the chamber.

Receivers for Commonwealth

At Request of McAtamney Who Sues Hotel Company and Broadway Realty Corporation Against Which He Has Claims.

In the United States district court for the Southern district of New York on Monday, Judge Winslow appointed Newman Erb and Charles H. Wilson receivers in an equity suit filed by Hugh McAtamney of Pelham against the Commonwealth Hotel Construction Corporation, against which he has a claim of $2,800, and of the Broadway, Seventh Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street Hotel Realty Corporation, against which he has a claim of $2,500. The receivers were appointed under $50,000 bond.

The Commonwealth Hotel Company has a number of local stockholders. The bill of complaint filed by McAtamney states that the defendant corporations are closely allied and have liabilities aggregating several millions of dollars; that suits are pending in the Supreme court against the Commonwealth Company by subscribers of stock for recovery of sums paid on stock subscription contracts, the suits being based on allegations that misrepresentations were made by former selling agents of the Commonwealth Company in procuring subscription contracts.

An action also brought in the Supreme court was brought by the attorney general of the state to enjoin the company from selling the stock.

The defendant companies were formed to erect a residential hotel, to be operated on a cooperative plan and construction work was started recently. The bill states that the Commonwealth Company is capitalized at 50,000 shares of preferred of the par value of $100 and 100,000 shares of common of no par value, and that the Broadway Company is capitalized at 50,000 shares of par value of $100 and 50,000 common of no par value. Hartman, Sheridan & Tekulsky represent the complainant in the equity action and Dittenhoefer & Fisher appear for the defendant companies, which filed a formal answer consenting to the appointment of receivers.

The co-operative features of the Commonwealth Hotel proposition as understood by Kingston stockholders were somewhat unusual and much broader than most co-operative plans. According to the plan, stockholders would receive a substantial discount in the hotel bills at the Commonwealth, and owners of a certain number of shares became members of the Commonwealth Club, which afforded bright social prospects, such as recognition by fellow members as soon as they had registered at the hotel and entrance to numerous metropolitan social functions. Afterward, it appeared to some of the local stockholders that the co-operative features had been carried to an extreme possible only in the imagination of efficiency experts.

Gold Fibre Screen.
Bert Lowe, of this city, who is manager of the Onondaga theatre, has installed a new Gardner velvet gold fibre screen, which it is said represents the last word in moving picture screens. It gives the picture 100 per cent more light bringing out in true detail every feature.

"Rest", Guard Against Pneumonia

Now Come the Dangerous Months—Percentage of Mortality Unchanged In 25 Years

BY DR. HERBERT OLD
Asst. Medical Director
Provident Mutual Life Insurance Company

SINCE typhoid fever has been conquered by modern sanitation measures and anti-typhoid vaccination, and pulmonary tuberculosis is on the rapid road of being controlled and eventually wiped out, it might not be amiss to say something about pneumonia, the third one of a trio of diseases that has been accountable for so many deaths.

The mortality from pneumonia has remained practically the same for the past twenty-five years, varying from 10 to 60 per cent of the cases reported. The percentages increase according to age, lowered body resistance brought about by fatigue, poor personal hygiene, and former intemperance in eating and drinking, and whether or not the pneumonic process immediately follows or is secondary to some former disease, as influenza, measles, whooping-cough, etc.

The reason an individual can harbor germs in his throat and feel well is due to the fact that the body tissues are stimulated by the presence of the germs to form protective substances which are either capable of destroying the germs or of counteracting the poisons that are elaborated by them. However, "one man's food is another man's poison," for each individual can acquire immunity only for the germs that are present in his own body, and pneumonia cases in which it was clearly indicated. In those cases where it was able to be employed before the fourth day of the disease the mortality was 18 per cent; in the other cases, who arrived at the hospital with the general blood stream involved, the mortality was 55 per cent.

Former habits is a factor of equal importance. The mortality from pneumonia among alcoholics is the highest recorded at all hospitals, and a common saying among the attending physicians "colds," "raw throats," "coughs," and the medical internes is, "If I see a Grippe, etc., fewer cases of pneumonia would develop."

The vigorous and robust man looks with scorn and even anger upon the suggestion that he be vaccinated against pneumonia.

The following table shows the percentage of deaths due to pneumonia, and influenza for 1920, 1921 and 1922 among provident policy holders:

Year	Pneu-monia	Infl-u-enza	Total
1920	12	8	20
1921	10	1	11
1922	11	0	11
Average	11	3	14

Coughing and Sneezing
The reason an individual can harbor germs in his throat and feel well is due to the fact that the body tissues are stimulated by the presence of the germs to form protective substances which are either capable of destroying the germs or of counteracting the poisons that are elaborated by them. However, "one man's food is another man's poison," for each individual can acquire immunity only for the germs that are present in his own body, and pneumonia cases in which it was clearly indicated. In those cases where it was able to be employed before the fourth day of the disease the mortality was 18 per cent; in the other cases, who arrived at the hospital with the general blood stream involved, the mortality was 55 per cent.

Physical rest is the potent measure conducive to the formation of protective substances, and if children were made to remain in bed for three or four days for many so-called trivial ailments as "colds," "raw throats," "coughs," and the medical internes is, "If I see a Grippe, etc., fewer cases of pneumonia would develop."

The vigorous and robust man looks with scorn and even anger upon the suggestion that he be vaccinated against pneumonia.

Recovery Depends On Former Habits: Records Show Chances Less For Alcoholics

main at home and seek medical advice for any irritation of the throat, nose, or eyes, even if at the same time he should have no appetite and have chilly feelings running up and down the spine. He should know that such a combination of symptoms or feelings means that he has some fever, and fever means that the germs and the body tissues are having a lively fight, which will continue until the one or the other is the conqueror. Each muscular and mental action performed, requires much blood to flow to the brain or muscles; the blood carries the ammunition of the body tissues, therefore, by being up and about and insisting upon attending to his day's work, he places himself on the side of the germs in the fight by carting away to fronts not involved a large amount of blood or ammunition.

Early Diagnosis
All well-informed medical men know that in no disease is the opportunity to make an early diagnosis and institute the proper treatment such an important factor as in pneumonia. The process for the first three days of this disease is more or less localized in the lung tissues. After this time the germs get into and grow in the general blood stream. This fact was very well illustrated at one of our best equipped hospitals where the anti-pneumococcus serum was used in all of the pneumonia cases in which it was clearly indicated. In those cases where it was able to be employed before the fourth day of the disease the mortality was 18 per cent; in the other cases, who arrived at the hospital with the general blood stream involved, the mortality was 55 per cent.

Former habits is a factor of equal importance. The mortality from pneumonia among alcoholics is the highest recorded at all hospitals, and a common saying among the attending physicians "colds," "raw throats," "coughs," and the medical internes is, "If I see a Grippe, etc., fewer cases of pneumonia would develop."

affairs have been enjoyed. At Christmas time two special "giving" parties were held. The Girl Reserves on this occasion brought articles of food which they placed at the foot of the Christmas tree, later to be handed over to the Salvation Army for distribution. The older girls entertained thirty small children who otherwise would not have had a very merry Christmas, providing many attractive gifts which were duly presented by Santa Claus.

To the active membership committee, headed by Mrs. J. Allan Wood goes much of the credit for the success of all our "open house" evenings. This committee has also done most remarkable work in the securing of association members, the total on January 1st being 1,234, which is considered very unusual in a city of this size.

Three groups of our association girls are working on plays and expect to make their bow to the public early in the new year. All these are for the benefit of the camp and conference fund.

In October the local staff attended a secretarial conference in Poughkeepsie and on November 10th, the Kingston association had the pleasure of having delegates from Poughkeepsie and Newburgh meet here for a board and committee members' conference. Three secretaries from the Y. W. C. A. headquarters have visited us this fall, assisting in getting our various departments started according to the latest and most approved standards of the national organization, with which we became affiliated on October 4th.

During the months of September, October, November, and December, a total of 5,312 were received at the building and attended our scheduled activities.

Thus as we face the new year, we are very happy that in Kingston we at last have a real Y. W. C. A. And though it is at present only in its infancy, still it is a member of a big association family with representatives all around the world. Everywhere the underlying purpose is the same, and the slogan is "In service for the girls of the world." We look forward into the future with confidence. What our sister associations have accomplished, we also can do in time, for now we, I am sure, are there a more splendid group of Christian girls and women dedicating their energies to the task of making life happier and more worthwhile for the young women of their community.

The next order of business was the election of twenty-four directors, eight to hold office one year; eight to hold office two years, and eight to hold office three years, resulting as follows:

Directors for one year:
Mrs. G. F. Rice, Miss Alma Tyler, Mrs. Frank Thompson, Dr. Mary Gage-Day, Mrs. C. V. Dickson, Mrs. Seth Stepley, Mrs. W. N. Fessenden, Mrs. M. S. Safford.

Directors for two years:
Miss Nan Roddy, Miss Jennie Riseley, Mrs. Charles R. Hall, Mrs. J. Allan Wood, Mrs. Frank Matthews, Mrs. E. F. Mac Fadden, Miss Emily Kroeger, Mrs. Ida LeFevre.

Directors for three years:
Mrs. W. C. Kingman, Miss Idella Hyde, Miss Sarah Horton, Miss Carolyn Hermann, Mrs. Francis J. Higginson, Miss J. M. Fowler, Miss Edna Halwick, Mrs. Pultz.

A new nominating committee was also chosen composed of Mrs. M. S. Safford, chairman, Mrs. W. C. Kingman, Mrs. Sarah Millard, Miss Margaret Riseley and Miss Beniah Smith.

An amendment to the constitution, directing that a nominating committee shall be chosen composed of two directors and three members of the Y. W. C. A. at large, was read and will be voted upon at the October meeting.

After the business session there was a short musical program during which Miss Greta Lunketter, accompanied by Miss Babcock, sang two very pleasing vocal solos and Miss Helen Smith entertained all present with two fine piano solos.

Mrs. Rice then introduced Miss Day, of the Educational Department of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A., who addressed the young women present on the timely topic of "World Peace."

After expressing her appreciation of the accomplishments of this new Y. W. C. A. and her pleasure at being sent to address the organization which Miss Capen had told her would offer the best audience she had ever addressed or ever would address. Miss Day opened her talk with a reading of a poem, written at the close of the World War, entitled, "The New Victory," the closing lines of which read, "This is the new victory, not a moment's peace, but a new peace, a new world, following war can be. Miss Day said that the new victory was still without a monument. Education was considered by the speaker as the one great means by which world peace was possibly secured. The speaker then called attention to the fact that the great Y. W. C. A. of the entire world was hoping, praying, working for world peace, and was convinced that such united effort and interest, must have a powerful influence in securing lasting peace. Nor is the Y. W. C. A. working alone for this most desired end. There are 89 National Peace organizations, studying to promote peace and with these the Y. W. C. A. is co-operating, for only by co-operation can the cause be won. Yet there is also an individual responsibility and that is that each of us should become intelligent thinkers in regard to the matter of world peace, and then pass on to our neighbors the idea and ideal that shall in the aggregate bring to pass this dream of a war sick world. Miss Day closed her address by reading Ella Wheeler Wilcox's poem, "Inspiration."

The evening closed with a social hour and the serving of ice cream and home made cake.
